COUNTY TREASURER WINNER OF COUNTY ETHICS CONTEST

May 9, 2011

Milwaukee County Treasurer Dan Diliberti received an award for game-winning responses to quiz questions posted by the Milwaukee County Ethics Board.

“The Ethics Board Director, Veronica Robinson, is taking ethics education to a new level by posing interesting real-life questions to county employees,” said Diliberti. “It’s a great way to make ethics codes come alive and take on a meaningful role in day-to-day questions facing county employees.”

Diliberti, who has taught government ethics courses and has authored county ethics legislation, said he was glad to see the ethics board use creative new ideas to promote awareness of ethical practices in government.

“Ethics in government is a timely subject that has captured public attention,” added Diliberti. “We owe it to the taxpayers to promote ethical practices in all levels of public service.”
